

HUMAN RIGHTS WATCH: DEMOCRACY IN TUNISIA

Dr Amna Guellali, Human Rights Watch Tunisia Director

May 12, 2016 4:00pm - 5:30pm

Deakin University City Centre

Level 3, 550 Bourke St, Melbourne

Dr Amna Guellali is a Tunisia and Algeria researcher in Human Rights Watch's Middle East and North Africa Division, investigating human rights abuses in both countries. She produces detailed reports, news releases, and op-eds based on her findings and conducts local and international advocacy. Before joining Human Rights Watch, Dr. Guellali worked as analyst at the office of the Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court in the Hague, and as Senior Researcher at the department of international law at the Asser Institute. She has also served as legal officer at the regional delegation of the International Committee of the Red Cross in Tunis. Dr. Guellali holds a PhD from the European University Institute in Florence.

RSVP to Dara Conduit at dara.conduit@deakin.edu.au